

Guided by a cloud 3 (Exodus 13:21-22)

The banners are finished and up!

Life has changed dramatically over the last few weeks. We are trying to manage a completely new experience and it is understandable that we might be feeling afraid, overwhelmed, exhausted and emotional. Be gentle with yourself. In the midst of all the unknown we can cling to the certainty of God's unconditional, never ending love for us. Our feelings may come and go but God's love is constant.

Pray that our church, homes and hearts will be filled with God's love, joy and peace.

Read Psalm 136. Sing along to Our God

Palm Sunday

As I'm sure you're aware this Sunday is Palm Sunday a time when 100's maybe 1000's lined the streets of Jerusalem to praise, honour and welcome Jesus into the city. He was welcomed as their saviour and king but not in the way many expected. Their intentions and motives were good, it's always good and right to cheer Jesus and to give Him the praise. However, many of the people didn't know what it really meant to follow Jesus, what it would demand of them. So, when things got tougher and troubles came later in the week many of them, even some of the disciples, fell away and deserted Him.

We, however, can rejoice and be joyful because we know the end of the story. Jesus went through a horrendous time but came out the other side with death defeated and eternal life secured for all of us. We can cheer Him today on Palm Sunday, through Holy week and through the situations we find ourselves in now. We can rejoice because we believe in Jesus and we can know he is here with us now and we will spend eternity with Him praising and rejoicing with all of creation.

Read the story of Jesus' entry to Jerusalem Luke 19:28-42, John 12:12-19

Worship time – if you are able click choruses below to listen/join

Hosanna in the highest

Everything that

These are the days of Elijah

“Cast all your anxiety on Him because he cares for you” 1Peter 5:7